Werewolves & Flower Gnomes!

By Paul Dale Roberts, Halo Paranormal Investigation

Close to Wolfsegg Castle in Germany sits Schwaighauser forest. Legend has it that human bones and animal bones have been found in an unknown cavern in the forest. Locals believe that the bones are from people who go missing in the area.

A German resident named Gunter Hoffman revealed that when he was hunting in the forest, he came upon a 6-foot 5-inch, bipedal, hairy man that had a face like a dog or wolf. His fur was brownish in color, but there was some white fur on his face.

The werewolf snarled at Gunter. Frightened, Gunter shot a round into the air, which scared off the creature, which then ran off into the woods. Gunter believes he encountered some kind of werewolf.

Hans Lehmann, a German tourist, says that he once heard a wolf-like howl coming out of the forest and a blood curdling scream that sounded like a man. Hans says this happened in 1984 while he was hiking in the forest. The howling and scream scared him so much that he ran out of the forest as quickly as possible, never to return.

From Werewolves to Forest Flower Gnomes

Another forest just South of Wolfsegg Castle is Bodenlehrpfad Schwaighauser forest. Mila Werner and her friend Ida Maier were two German nationals who I knew in Nurnberg, Germany. Mila and Ida had an amazing story.

They said that on a beautiful August day in 1971, they had a picnic in the forest. Next to their picnic blanket were beautiful blue wildflowers called Blaue Blume. As they were enjoying their fruits and sandwiches, six of the blue flowers transformed into six tiny people. And two of the tiny people jumped on their picnic blanket, stole some cherries, and ran off.

Mila says that the six gnomes had silly-looking outfits on that were blue in color and two of the gnomes were wearing pointed hats. Ida says this forest is infested with little people, and they were fortunate to actually have an encounter with them.

Mila and Ida said they were not afraid at all and thought the little people looked cute. ◆